

"Save the Prisoners of Conscience"

— Reality of Repression of Human Rights by Chinese Communism —

Mr. Dhondup Wangchen (Tibetan)

Mr. Khadaa (Mongolian)

Mr. Liu Xiaobo (Han-Chinese)

Mr. Gheyret Niyaz (Uyghur)

When: March 5th, Sat, 2011. Starting at 18:40

Where: Central Building Room #101, National Olympics Memorial Youth Center
(3-1. Yoyogi Kamizono-cho, Shibuya-ku, Tokyo)

Fee: 1000 yen

Host: Inner Mongolian People's Party

Joint Host: Japan Uyghur Association, Society for Thinking of Issues in Tibet, Federation for a Democratic China, South Mongolian Human Rights Information Center, Japan Committee of 100 For Tibet, Mongolian Liberal Union Party, Japan-Tibet Friendship Association, South Mongolia Support Quriltai, Supported by: Society of Monks and Lay people Praying and Acting for Peace in Tibet beyond Sects, Students for a Free TIBET Japan, Japan Islamic Friendship Association, Tibet Friendship Association

Mr. Khadaa who asked for the human rights for the Mongolians, Mr. Gheyret who just interviewed with the foreign media, Mr. Dhondup who made a movie about the reality of the Tibetan, Mr. Liu who proposed the Charter 08 to realize the democracy in China, they are all under the sentence of 15 years at the longest. People who are under the sentence unjustifiably for their speech or ideology are called "the prisoners of conscience."

There is the reality of the unknown abuse of the human rights behind the remarkable economic development in China. In the South Mongolia, the ethnic assimilation campaign has been enforced since 1950's and the Mongolian language and the traditional culture that are under the population pressure by Han Chinese are facing a danger of the extinction. The population invasion and the assimilation policy are currently promoted in East Turkestan and Tibet as well. Also, the speech of those who preserve their own culture and language and seek for the true freedom is limited and many citizens are regulated.

On the Mainland China, the torture and the punishment on the democracy campaigners and the believers of the Falun Gong are continuing and the problems of poverty and the pollution of the life environment in the rural area are neglected, so many people are still suffering. The political system of the current China that suppresses the people who are critical to the government using the authority that was referred by them proves itself that 'the modern' that the Chinese Communist Party is proud of isn't based on the reality.

As stated above, it is nothing but the Chinese Communist Party that prevents the ethnic groups of the East Asia from the prosperity in the free and democratic society and the thriving ethnic culture. Adversely, those who are arrested for opposing to the Chinese Communist Party are the conscience of mankind and the precious people that would lead our society to the bright future.

Let's not ignore the existence of the prisoners of conscience but tie up with those who love the democracy and the peace beyond the countries and the ethnicity, stand up with courage, and ask for the release of the prisoners of the conscience.

Inner Mongolian People's Party

Inner Mongolian People's Party

web: <http://www.innermongolia.org>
e-mail: impp@innermongolia.org

Inner Mongolian People's Party is a political organization that was established by the Mongolian people who asked for the right of self-determination of the South Mongolia in the Princeton in England on March 20th, 1997. We are opposed to the infringement of the human rights and the ethnic assimilation policy by the Chinese Communist Party and are struggling jointly with the democracy campaigners of China, Tibet, and Uyghur. Now we have the branch division in Germany, Sweden, France, Holland, Mongolia, and Japan and engage in the supportive activities for those who are repressed in South Mongolia. The name of the party originates in the Inner Mongolian People's Revolutionary Party Cleanup Incident (the systematic Mongolian genocide.)

